

References

“Don’t online evaluations have lower return rates than paper?”

Johnson, T. (2002). Online student ratings: Will students respond? Paper presented at the annual meeting of the American Educational Research Association, New Orleans, 2002.

Norris, J., & Conn, C. (2005). Investigating Strategies for Increasing Student Response Rates to Online-Delivered Course Evaluations. Quarterly Review of Distance Education, 6: 13-29.

Ravenscroft, M. & Enyeart, C. (2009). Online Student Course Evaluations: Strategies for Increasing Student Participation Rates: Custom Research Brief. Education Advisory Board, Washington D.C.

University of British Columbia, Vancouver. (2010, April 15). Student Evaluations of Teaching: Response Rates.